

Review the entire website and fix the left and right spacing so every section follows one consistent alignment.

Use the same main content area throughout the page. The Hero, service sections, cards, supporting text, FAQ, related services, CTA, and footer should all feel like they are sitting on the same horizontal grid.

Keep equal spacing on both sides:

- Desktop: 96px
- Laptop: 64px
- Tablet: 40px
- Mobile: 24px
- Small mobile: 20px

Do not use different padding values for individual sections. Remove unnecessary custom margins or offsets that make one section start further left or right than another.

The Hero content should align with the service card grid. Service cards, descriptions, feature rows, FAQ content, and related-service cards should follow the same left and right boundaries.

Keep section headings centered where they are currently centered, but make sure their parent container follows the same global grid.

Do not change the existing design, typography, colors, images, card sizes, animations, content, or section order. Only correct the horizontal padding, container width, margins, and responsive alignment.

The final result should look clean, balanced, and consistent, with a clear common left and right alignment across the entire Edify website.
